Hello, Nick here,

If you've read my bit in Tosh Tales before you may recall that I've been going on about my new recording studio that I had built a while ago. Well in the last few months I've actually managed to get on with preparing the inside ready for soundproofing. I haven't got as much done as I would have liked but at least I've made a start. On the recording side of things, the good news is that Tosh has recently made a few visits to my 'old' studio where we've been putting the finishing touches to his new album 'Wishstone'.

All that's left to do right order for the on sale at a gig of course.

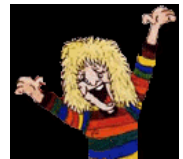

on recording some have another be good. If you've (I hope I've spelt their frontman, Roger, songs and a very nice a.k.a. 'Father', (I think that's French of the two) has come and record her own and I'm pleased to say that, all being well, it should be happening in the very near future.

Anyway, the first gig we've got to do in May will be something a bit different for us. It's actually a party we're playing at, together with Mario Price the violinist, and it's turned out to be a Ceilidh (I hope I've spelt that right as well) which you probably know is one of those do's where someone stands on the stage, (in this case it'll be Mario's partner Eileen) and calls out the steps while we play the tunes and then the people on the dance floor get into sets and skip about holding hands and stuff. It's the first time I've ever played for one of these so it should be good fun.

I'd better go now and have a practice at playing the tunes.

Bye for now,
Nick

Note :- I just thought that I would add this advertisement to 'Tosh Tales' because my brother Mark and my Sister-in-Law, Karen, belong to this choir. Me and Di had the privilege to watch them rehearse, we were bowled over to say the least. Being biased apart if you ever near Hay-on-Wye in Wales or surrounding area, and they happen to be performing don't miss them. 'The Cwmbach Quire' are a great evenings entertainment. Also just for my brother.... On the right is a picture of the original Cwmbach Quire boy. When a boy, this gentleman was a choirboy in Cwmbach Church. TOSH
